Short Description

The Dream Planter: A Life Lesson Series for Learners

The Dream Planter is a metaphor for life. It offers each learner and their teacher, an opportunity to plant a seedling upside down that represents living life in a topsy turvy world. The Dream Planter is designed to give learners and teachers an experience of planting a seedling on their own or with someone else to demonstrate what working in teams is all about.

Description

The Dream Planter Methodology

The Dream Planter Life Lesson Series for Learners is a Six day intervention – spread over 6 months. These are interactive sessions with reflective exercises and group work. Each Life Lesson is scheduled as a Two hour session with learners as an activity to highlight the following principles:

- Discovering one's purpose.
- What are the ingredients that make one grow?
- What happens when something unexpected happens and how does one adjust to such life challenges?
- Who am I – what defines me?
- What goals do I have and how do I go about achieving them?

The programme is adjusted to each grade level and is facilitated by an experienced facilitator who understands the context of the school and its community.

The 5D Framework

There are 5 stages to this process:

- Discover

What is the purpose of the planter?

What happens when your world is turned upside down?

- Dialogue

This stage involves finding an accurate reflection of the above questions and a dialogue takes place with the learner on the process of planting the seedling.

- Doing

This stage involves physically planting the seedling using the steps in the leaflet given in the Dream Planter box.

- Decision

This stage focuses on personal decisions that need to be made when working with the metaphor of the Dream Planter.

- Delicate

This is the process of caring for the plant.
